Summits of the Psalms

By: Joe Macer

Psalm 146

146:10 The Lord reigns forever, your God, O Zion, for all generations. Praise the Lord.

When trouble comes into your life, where do you turn for help? Often we turn to family or friends. In our society, many look to the government. In each of these situations we are turning to men to supply our needs. Men may help us sometimes but often they cannot. The Psalmist said, "Do not put your trust in princes." Men cannot save because men are mortal. Men die and their plans come to nothing. The Psalmist wants his readers to know that our trust must be placed in God, who is eternal.

God created the world in which we live. He existed before the world began and he will be after this world is no longer in existence. He has been faithful and will continue to be faithful. God has his eye on all. He is watching out for the oppressed, the hungry, the prisoner, the blind and all who are bowed down. He knows those who are righteous and he cares for them. Think of the many Biblical characters that he has brought out of dire circumstances. He watches over the alien, the fatherless and the widow. He also knows those who are wicked and he frustrates their plans. Think of many stories within the Scriptures where the evil person looked as if he would be the victor and yet the Lord delivered his people. God is in control. The Lord will always be there. He reigns forever and throughout all generations. When the Psalmist thought of all this, his only desire was to praise the Lord. As Christians, we can see God working in our lives. We also should only naturally want to praise him.

The plans of the heart belong to man, But the answer of the tongue is from the LORD. All the ways of a man are clean in his own sight, But the LORD weighs the motives. Commit your works to the LORD And your plans will be established.
